ABOUT SARAH ZENTZ JEWELRY

Hi! My name is Sarah and I am the Chief Jewelry Designer and Owner of Sarah Zentz Jewelry. I received a BFA in Metalsmithing while studying under Christina Miller, Co-Founder of Ethical Metalsmiths, at Millersville University in Pennsylvania. My jewelry studio is based where the ocean meets to redwood forest in Big Sur, California.

COMMITMENT TO ETHICAL JEWELRY

My ethical jewelry is all handcrafted and made in the USA (Big Sur, California). I use the most sustainable materials in jewelry production including recycled metals, ethically sourced diamonds, and reclaimed redwood. I am committed to being a jewelry designer who is also an advocate for responsible mining, sustainable and ethical sources for gold, silver, and diamonds in hopes of promoting responsible mining and supply chain transparency. I believe it is of upmost importance for jewelry designers and companies to transform the mining and jewelry industries for the protection of the earth, its peoples, and cultures. My goal is to help reduce the ecological and human footprint of mining by using sustainable materials and recycled metals.

My 2017 ethical jewelry collection is made from reclaimed redwood and Argentium Silver. Due to habitat losses from fire, logging, drought, and air pollution redwood trees are endangered. In my jewelry production, I only use fallen old growth redwood from California. The redwood in my jewelry designs is not treated and therefore remains fully biodegradable. My hope is that my jewelry will be a part of the conservation efforts to preserve the remaining redwood forests by bringing awareness to the threats the largest and tallest trees in the world are facing. Additionally, Argentium Silver is considered an “environmentally responsible” metal that does not tarnish. All Argentium is made from 100% recycled silver and fully traceable, ethically sourced raw silver. In 2017, I will also offer all of my jewelry designs in 100% recycled Brass.

TARGET AUDIENCE

My handmade ethical jewelry is inspired by and created for the nature loving adventurer and traveler. I design contemporary pieces of adornment that are minimal, geometric, and ethically made. My jewelry designs are unisex with the target audience of men and women ages 25-35 years old.

ETHICAL PACKAGING & SHIPPING

Jewelry will be individually packaged in a sturdy jewelry box made with recycled cardboard & cotton.

PAYMENT & SHIPPING

Payments can be made by Credit Card, Check, or PayPal. All major credit cards are accepted. Every order originates in Big Sur, California where your jewelry is made and packaged. Items will be shipped via USPS First Class (tracking # will be provided upon shipment). Expedited shipping is also available upon request.

Please contact me with any questions or special requests!
